LeanCor Growth Prompts Move to Progressive Space!

Florence, KY – February 18th, 2009 – As a result of continued growth and success, LeanCor is pleased to announce their relocation to the Northern Kentucky Association of Realtors building located at 7660 Turfway Rd, less than two miles from their present location. This move represents an expansion of 3,700 square feet for a total occupancy of 6,000 square feet on the second floor.

Nearly surrounded by glass, the space is filled with sunlight and offers spectacular views of both the Greater Cincinnati Northern Kentucky Airport and Turfway Park. LeanCor's commitment to lean is evidenced throughout. Lean tools and principles including visual management, 5S, supply chain visibility, and quality at the source have been inherently built into the layout. Designed with LeanCor's newly launched brand in mind, the interior reflects a contemporary and energetic edge. At the center of attention is a three-tiered platform housing a leading-edge operations center to support the heartbeat of customers' global supply chain operations. Transition to the new space will be complete by March 2nd.

LeanCor is extremely grateful for the opportunity to collaborate with local government organizations including the City of Florence, ezone, Tri-Ed, Department of Economic Development, and Department for Commercialization and Innovation. LeanCor is positioned to create eighteen full time technical jobs in the next three years and is committed to the Northern Kentucky community having secured a presence here for the next fifteen years.

An open house will be scheduled in June. Details will be made available at www.leancor.com. Interested parties may also contact Erika Roberts, Director of Corporate Development at eroberts@leancor.com or via phone at 859.283.7597.

LeanCor is the only 3PL wholly dedicated to the application of Lean principles throughout the supply chain. LeanCor's three service categories (training, consulting, and operations) are designed to support companies in their effort to eliminate organizational waste, drive down cost, and increase global competitive advantage. Through these services, industry experience, and partnerships with established, forward thinking entities, LeanCor is designed to support companies throughout their entire lean journey.
